Susan Sly takes a hands on approach, building capabilities within client organisations and introducing them to likeminded peers.

Her commercial acumen, technical leadership and operational effectiveness were recognised in 2013 when she was awarded the Victorian and national iAwards CIO of the Year. Susan's experience includes fifteen years in IT executive roles prior to which she worked offshore in the oil and gas industry, served in the Navy and worked in public relations and human resources. Susan is now the Director of Lueur Pty Ltd where she advises and consults to commercial and government organisations regarding technology strategy and its implementation.
